War Museum proposal mooted for Old DC Office

Project also to set up Defence Library and Research Centre; Plan submitted to CM Siddharamaiah, gets a positive response

By M.T. Yogesh Kumar

Mysuru, Aug. 13- As the country is celebrating 76th Independence Day on Aug. 15, a befitting War Museum in Mysuru city is gaining ground and what better place to establish the Museum than the Old Deputy Commissioner's (DC) Office, a heritage building. Incidentally, the War Memorial is being constructed at the NCC Parade Grounds.

Located adjacent to the Old DC's Office and right in front of the NCC Group Headquarters, the War Memorial serves as a symbol of deep respect for the sacrifices made by the Defence Forces and it is an ideal place to have a War Museum in vicinity.

A proposal has been submitted to Chief Minister (CM) Siddharamaiah to convert the Old DC's Office into a 'War Museum and Defence Library and Research Centre' by KAS Officer C.L. Ananda, who is currently serving as Mangaluru City Corporation Commissioner.

He had earlier served in Mysuru as the Assistant Commissioner and as an Ex-Serviceman himself, he had taken active interest and was deeply involved in establishing the War Memorial that is taking shape in Mysuru city.

According to sources, the proposal was submitted to the CM when he was in Mangaluru recently and the CM gave a positive response, while appreciating the works done on the Memorial using granite stones that were donated by quarry owners.

Dept. of Sainik Welfare and Resettlement

In fact, it was Ananda who first mooted the idea of the War Museum way back in 2018 when he was the Special Deputy Commissioner of Bagalkot District. In a communiqué to Brig. S.B. Sajjan (Retd.) Director of Department of Sainik Welfare and Resettlement, Bengaluru, Ananda had highlighted the need of setting up a War Museum in Mysuru.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Prime Minister Narendra Modi, while delivering the keynote address at the 2021 Sydney Dialogue, had remarked, 'We use data as a source of empowerment of people. India has unmatched expertise in doing this in a democratic framework with strong guarantees of individual rights.' The Digital Personal Data Protection (DPDP) bill, passed in the Lok Sabha on Monday, represents the fulfilment of this confidence and commitment. Almost a third of India's internet users are projected to be between 12 and 17 by 2025. Recognising the vulnerability of this demographic in the digital landscape and ensuring their protection, there are provisions including the need for verifiable consent from a lawful guardian before processing any of their data.

The Bill also prohibits data fiduciaries from processing any personal data that may harm the child's well-being and strictly forbids data fiduciaries from engaging in behavioural monitoring or tracking of children. The Bill imposes restrictions on transferring personal data for processing to countries and territories outside India. There could be fines up to a massive Rs. 250 crore for lapses in compliance. Even governments are not exempted from any of the clauses in the Bill except in situations necessary for national security purposes or to maintain public order. A Data Protection Board (DPB) would act as the regulator overseeing and ensuring compliance with the new laws and taking necessary actions against violations. There are clearly laid provisions for alternative dispute resolution via mediation. The Bill also provides the right to appeal against orders issued by the regulatory body. The passage of the DPDP Bill in the House of the People is a significant step that would lead to a secure and accountable yet thriving Indian digital ecosystem.

Puzzle King completes mega jigsaw puzzle

Salzgitter (Germany): The German 'Puzzle King' who was missing the very last piece to complete a 54,000-piece jigsaw has finally hit his target after the manufacturer sent him the remaining part. The 54,000-piece jigsaw is said to be the world's most giant puzzle.

The enthusiast, who considers himself a true puzzle devotee and a very patient man, something that, according to him, is essential when solving puzzles with thousands of pieces, could not believe his dream became true.

He said that he has finally received the missing piece and filled out the blank space in his 54,000-piece jigsaw. He is waiting for the Record Institute of Germany's (RID) answer regarding his application.

VOICE OF THE READER

Plan circular bus routes
before Dasara to avoid chaos

Sir,

As the Dasara festivities approach, I am writing to draw your attention to a pressing concern that puts significant pressure on the road network and transportation system in Mysuru. During this time, the influx of visitors and increased local activities places immense strain on roads surrounding the Palace, Exhibition, K.R. Circle, Sayyaji Rao Road and Devaraj Urs Road.

One of the major challenges we face is the congestion caused by all city buses entering Central Bus Stand (CBS). This not only overwhelms the road network but also disrupts the city bus network, leading to extensive wait times for passengers. Consequently, people resort to using personal vehicles, exacerbating chaos in the city centre.

To address this issue effectively, I propose the implementation of Circular Bus Routes, a concept that has been previously discussed in SOM publications. These circular routes would provide direct connectivity to various localities, thus reducing the pressure on CBS, particularly during the busy Dasara period. We strongly urge you to initiate an experimentation phase for these circular routes immediately. Simultaneously, we request that plans for dedicated bus lanes and diversion strategies be set in motion.

The concept of a contraflow lane, as previously discussed in the March 20, 2022 'Voice of the Reader' holds great promise to eliminate buses passing in front of the Exhibition. Additionally, we advocate for the installation of a lane segregator exclusively dedicated to buses from Hardinge Circle to Palace Gate. Given the approaching Dasara festivities, we implore you to plan ahead and conduct tests of these proposed measures at least one month before the event. This will allow for adequate assessment and fine-tuning, ensuring their smooth implementation during the busy festival season.

Craze for reels, woman 'killed' by hubby

Pooja

Srinath and his father-in-law Doreswamy

Mandya, Aug. 13 (BS)- A woman's fad for shooting video reels on cell phone has cost her life, with her suspecting husband allegedly doing her to death at Koppalu village in the district recently. The incident came to light after her body was found in Cauvery River.

Pooja (26), wife of Srinath, and daughter of Doreswamy of Koppalu is the deceased woman. Pooja and Srinath who hail from the same village, had married after courting for some time. The couple have an eight-year-old daughter.

It is alleged that, of late, Pooja was frequently doing reels only to trigger suspicion about her behaviour. It was often ending up with quarrels among the couple.

On Aug. 7, after sending his daughter to school, Srinath allegedly strangled his wife to death at home by using a chudidar veil.

Later, he also informed his father-in-law about the murder, before shifting the body on his two-wheeler, to his mother's house in the village to avoid suspicion after his daughter's return from the school in the evening.

Following day, on Aug. 8, Srinath with the help of his father-in-law, stuffed the body into a sack used to fill vegetables and transported it on his motorbike to River Cauvery that flows a kilometre away from their house. They later tied a boulder to the sack, before throwing it into the river.

The duo was of the belief that, the crocodiles in the water will eat the body. On Aug. 9, a forest guard noticed the body floating in the river and informed Arakere Police.

However, it didn't take much time for the Police to identify the body as Pooja was often visiting her father's hotel in Arakere and handling cash counter.

The Police who grew suspicious about Srinath interrogated him, for not lodging complaint even two days after his wife went missing. There were adequate clues to suspect that she may have died two days ago. The murder mystery came to light, with both Srinath and his father-in-law Doreswamy getting arrested by Arakere Police.

A case has been registered and investigation is on.

Lashkar Police, who rushed to the spot, took the two-wheeler rider into custody, registered a case and are investigating.

Welcoming the idea, Brig. Sajjan then wrote to the then Principal Secretary of the Revenue Department Dr. E.V. Ramana Reddy to consider the War Museum proposal. Now with the presentation made by Ananda to the CM, the issue is back in focus and now the Old DC Office is lying vacant as the functioning departments have been shifted to the new District Office Complex in Siddarthanagar.

In his presentation to Siddharamaiah, Ananda has mentioned that this building is appropriate for a 'War Museum, Defence Library and Research Centre' and will be a feather in the cap of the Heritage City of Mysuru as it will be housed in a heritage building, enriching its cultural and archaeological value.

It can be a first-of-its-kind Museum that will play a greater role in creating awareness on patriotism among young minds of the future generation and it can make an impact on every visitor.

Composition and governance

The Department of Sainik Welfare and Resettlement can take up the responsibility of creating and maintaining the museum and establish a system of governance that is guided by policies that set standards for the institution. The Board that will govern the Museum will be responsible for ensuring that the Museum is financially viable and ethically sound, the proposal adds.

Once the War Museum is established, there can be a Board of Trustees, Director, technical and administrative staff, curator, collections management (responsible for the hands-on care, movement and storage of objects), Registrar, educator, exhibit designer and a conservator. The proposal mentions the duties and responsibilities of the Director and staff separately.

If the War Museum can be housed at the ground floor of the Old DC Office, the first floor can be used to establish a Defence Library and Research Centre in the heritage building that has 27 big rooms with a floor area of 30,000 sq. ft.

The fully computerised library can accommodate more than 1 lakh books covering the areas of national security, defence strategy, military affairs, nuclear issues, international relations, conflict and peace studies, terrorism, related subjects and various reports. An Online Public Access Catalogue (OPAC) facility can also be implemented, the proposal said.

Defence and Strategic Studies at UoM

Ananda has also stated in the proposal that the University of Mysore (UoM) has approved a proposal to introduce undergraduate and post-graduate education in Defence and Strategic Studies in accordance with the New Education Policy (NEP) and a Department of Defence and Strategic Studies will soon be established.

Additionally, a proposal has been forwarded to establish an Armed Forces Medical College (AFMC - R&R - rest and relaxation) Centre in Mysuru. The Armed Forces Medical Services (AFMS) plays a crucial role in providing healthcare during peace and conflict, with increasing demand requiring infrastructure upgrades.

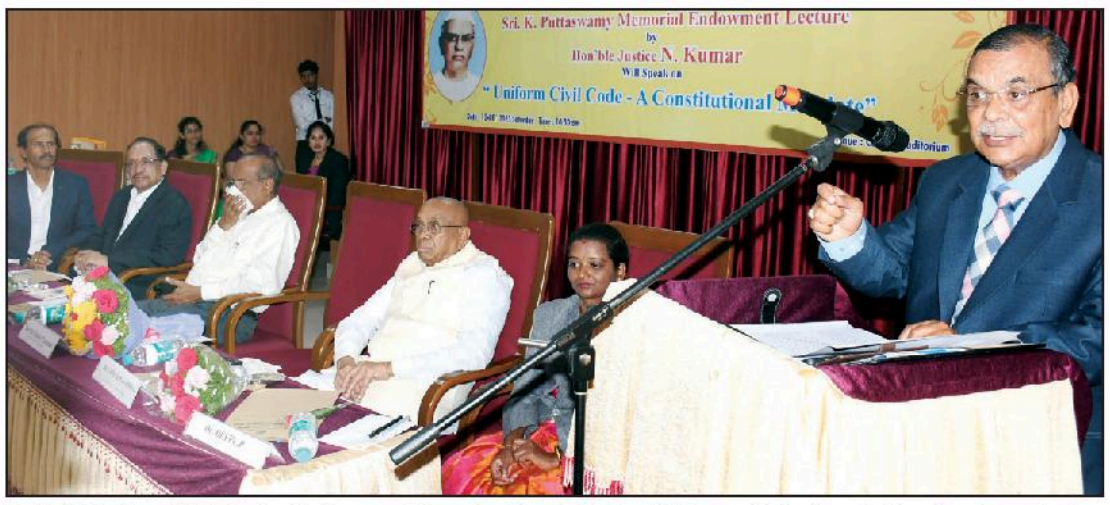
Presently, there's one Armed Forces Medical College in Pune, established in 1948. Given the strategic significance of the Southern Command Theatre of War, establishing another vital AFMC is essential and Mysuru is an ideal location for this purpose.

A befitting tribute to war history

Mysuru holds a proud military history. A significant moment was the Imperial Armed Forces' role in liberating Haifa in Israel on Sept. 23, 1918, during World War I. The bravery of soldiers from the Princely State of Mysore under Maharaja Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar was remarkable.

The Maharaja drafted 5,000 men and donated Rs. 50 lakh to the India War Fund, contributing to victory in this intense battle. Post-Independence, Karnataka produced military stalwarts, including Field Marshal K.M. Cariappa, the first Commander-in-Chief of the Indian Armed Forces and more distinguished officers known for their valour and leadership. This illustrious history is a case for setting up a War Museum in Mysuru.

Uniform Civil Code will do justice for deprived lot: Retd. HC Judge



Sri. K. Puttaswamy Memorial Endowment Lecture
by
Hon'ble Justice N. Kumar
Will Speak on
"Uniform Civil Code - A Constitutional

Retd. High Court (HC) Judge N. Kumar addressing the students at Vidyavardhaka Law College in city yesterday as Vidyavardhaka Sangha (VVS) Hon. President H.V. Gundappa Gowda, Hon. Secretary P. Vishwanath, Hon. Treasurer Srishaila Ramannavar and others look on.

Mysuru, Aug. 13 (PM&BS)- Retired High Court Judge Justice N. Kumar asserted that the Uniform Civil Code (UCC), already embedded in the Constitution, holds the potential to deliver justice to those who have suffered injustice. He criticised the spread of baseless rumours that implementing the UCC would lead to violence, asserting that such claims are unfounded and misguided.

Justice Kumar shared these views during the fourth endowment lecture titled 'Universal Civil Code-Constitutional Order.' The lecture was organised in honour of the founder of Vidyavardhaka Sangha, late K. Puttaswamy. The event took place at the Prof. P.M. Chikkaboraiah Auditorium of Vidyavardhaka Law College in the city yesterday.

He urged law students to delve into the subject of UCC and provide accurate information to the public. He emphasised that a comprehensive understanding of the Constitution is essential for a meaningful discourse on UCC. He lamented that many individuals selectively focus on rights while ignoring their duties, leading to misconceptions.

> "Rights and duties are two sides of the same coin. However, since the Constitution's inception, the focus has leaned heavily towards discussing rights. The ability to demand rights is contingent upon effectively fulfilling one's duties. Regrettably, there is a decreasing emphasis on duties in contemporary discourse. The introduction of fundamental duties by then PM Indira Gandhi during the Emergency was a commendable step, though it remains relatively obscure. Over the past 75 years, we have witnessed a preoccupation with fighting for rights while neglecting our duties."
> — Justice N. Kumar, retired High Court Judge

He underlined that the Constitution's freedom of religion is a fundamental strength. However, women from specific communities continue to suffer due to discriminatory personal laws. He believed that the UCC has the potential to rectify these shortcomings.

He also expressed concern about the commercialisation of the legal profession, particularly the charging of exorbitant fees by advocates. He urged law students not to misuse their education for personal gain but to uphold the profession's honour.

Justice Kumar called on current advocates to learn from the history of the Indian freedom movement and the dedication of former advocates who prioritised national interest over personal gains.

Vidyavardhaka Sangha Hon. President H.V. Gundappa Gowda, Hon. Secretary P. Vishwanath, Hon. Treasurer Srishaila Ramannavar, Vidyavardhaka Law College Principal Dr. P. Deepu and Legal Studies Director Prof. K.B. Vasudev were present on the occasion.

Dy.SP (Mounted Police) K.N. Suresh, Reserve Police Inspectors P. Sasanuru, G.N. Manjunath, A. Nandini and other Officers were present during the rehearsal.

On Aug. 15, District Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa will hoist the National Flag and MLA Tanveer Sait will preside over the event. DC Dr. K.V. Rajendra, Zilla Panchayat (ZP) CEO K.M. Gayathri, MLAs, MLCs and other dignitaries will also be in attendance.

Lansdowne Building battles neglect, decay and thieves

By Mohan Kayaka

Mysuru, Aug. 13- Mysuru, often dubbed as the 'Heritage City,' is now burdened with the overused label as the charm of its historical relics, deeply rooted in the princely era of Mysore, faces neglect from local officials and elected representatives.

The once splendid vestiges of the past that stand as testaments to its grand history are now falling prey to indifference, theft and decay. The lamentable state of heritage buildings in the city has become a recurring subject of discussions that merely make headlines in the media, yet falter in translating into concrete efforts to safeguard these cultural treasures for future generations.

Over a decade has passed since the collapse of the 132-year-old Lansdowne Building, located opposite the KSRTC City Bus Stand. Regrettably, the commitment to conserve this historical structure has largely been confined to empty words. Observing the abandoned state of this building prompts a troubling question: Can this dilapidated structure truly belong to the immaculate city of Mysuru?

Regrettably, the building has devolved into a dumping ground, accumulating refuse left by passersby, along with instances of public urination and even the discovery of unidentified bodies. This grim scenario underscores the apathy displayed by both the authorities concerned and the general public.

Reflecting on the tragedy of August 25, 2012, when the ceilings of shops 17 and 18 within the Lansdowne Building collapsed, claiming four lives, it's evident that discussions on whether to restore the heritage structure or rebuild it have yielded no definitive conclusion over the past eleven years.

State of despair

In the midst of these fervent debates, the gradual erosion of the heritage structures that once symbolised the visionary legacy of the Wadiyars, the former rulers of Mysore, is distressingly evident. The current rulers seem to lack the will to salvage these monuments from fading into obscurity.

The theft of doors and window frames from the building by petty criminals, who see it as an easy source of profit, is particularly disheartening. Despite their historical and antique value, these elements have vanished due to the greed of thieves and the loss remains largely unacknowledged.

While an iron mesh enclosure has been erected at the building's front to deter unauthorised access (though miscreants have managed to breach it), the rear of the building, accessible via a cement road, has transformed into an unfortunate spot for public urination. Even the presence of nearby shops has not curbed this behaviour, as individuals choose to relieve themselves in stormwater drains.

Least bothered leaders

Following the partial collapse of Lansdowne Building, the then District Minister S.A. Ramdas pledged to rebuild the structure within a year, backed by a release of Rs. 2 crore from the then Chief Minister B.S. Yediyurappa. Two separate committees, one comprising engineers and the other composed of heritage experts, were formed to study the feasibility of reconstruction or restoration. Unfortunately, amidst the cacophony of debates, the recommendations of both reports have been lost.

A glimmer of hope emerged when the Siddharamaiah-led Government allocated Rs. 6 crore for the building's reconstruction in 2015. However, the collapse of a portion of the Devaraja Market during its renovation dashed these plans, leaving the fate of Lansdowne Building in limbo, pending a High Court verdict resulting from a plea by some of its tenants.

While the outcome regarding Devaraja Market now appears resolved, with the High Court dismissing the Public Interest Litigation filed by the tenants' association against the decision to demolish and rebuild, the future of Lansdowne Building remains uncertain.

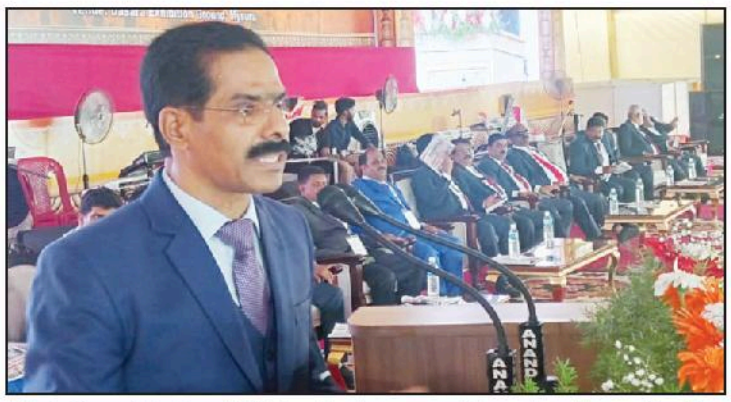
In the interim, petty thieves continue to take advantage, chipping away at Lansdowne's heritage value. The structure stands solitary, its legacy fading and no one to mourn its gradual demise.

Historical background

Constructed in 1892 by Chamaraja Wadiyar X, the Lansdowne Building aimed to provide essential services under one roof for the public's benefit. Commemorating the visit of Viceroy Lansdowne, a representative of Queen Victoria, the building was named after him. Like Mumbai's Victoria Terminal, Lansdowne Building was a landmark of Mysore. It's disheartening that both elected representatives and officers show a lack of commitment to its preservation.

10th State-level Advocates' Conference

Advocates are social engineers, says High Court Judge Sandesh



High Court Judge H.P. Sandesh seen addressing the gathering at the Advocates' Conference in city yesterday.

Mysuru, Aug. 13 (MK&BS)- High Court Judge H.P. Sandesh has said: "The advocates dressed in black robe who bring transformations in the society by ensuring justice for the oppressed, can be well described as social engineers."

Justice Sandesh was speaking on the topic 'The Role of Advocates in Nation Building' on the first day of the 10th State-level Advocates' Conference organised at Dasara Exhibition Grounds in city yesterday.

"The advocates are not just restricted for arguing in the Court, as they are informed about the happenings in the society and be the reason in bringing changes in the society. Hence they are called as 'social engineers', who have the responsibility of addressing the challenges that emerge during the changes in the society," added Justice Sandesh.

Most importantly, the advocates should involve in creating legal awareness among all in the society. To achieve this, they should deliver related lectures at associations, schools and colleges. The Acts brought by the Government should be followed by the opinions of legal fraternity too, pointed Justice Sandesh.

"The advocates should be honest without deceiving their clients. If they do so, they will be cheating their own conscience. Hence it is utmost important to be honest and create legal awareness among the clients without charging them any fee, besides guiding them. They should be agile in discharging their duty. Instead of making a lengthy argument, the advocates should have the ability of reading the mind of the judges and touch them with sensitive points," said Justice Sandesh.

Don't give false hope

"The advocates should not give any false hopes to their clients and work with a clear understanding of the result, before taking up any case. If they resort to give false hopes, it will bring disrepute both to the profession and legal machinery. Even before taking up any case, they should explain the facts to the clients," advised Justice Sandesh.

Cordial relationship

The advocates who argue in the Court, should share a good rapport outside. The seniors and juniors should share a cordial relationship. The relentless search for justice should be the hallmark of the profession. Justice can be assured to clients if the advocates are prepared and have a clear understanding of the points on which the judges may stress upon.

Instil confidence

The senior counsels should instil confidence in the juniors, besides guiding and encouraging them. Similarly, the juniors should have interest in learning, said Justice Sandesh, telling the senior advocates who must have acquired enough wealth to help their juniors with money to become financially stable. "What is the use in acquiring wealth valued at several crores of rupees. Do we carry them upon death," said Justice Sandesh.

Most importantly, apart from developing the habit of studying, advocates must develop certain qualities like time sense and discipline. Apart from respecting the seniors, they should allot time like a budget for 24-hours in the day. Apart from practicing, they should also contribute to the society. Advocates should live like a saint and work like a horse, said Justice Sandesh who gave a clear understanding on the role of advocates in the society.

Change in professional dimension

Former Advocate General of Karnataka Uday Holla, who spoke on the topic 'New Dimensions of Legal Profession,' delved into the changes in the realm and elaborated on the profession in other countries.

'Not all who read Vedas grow big'

Those who all read Vedas and Upanishads won't grow big. Those who respond to the pains and difficulties of the people grow big. Self-conscience is the biggest Court and those who tread accordingly will naturally get 'courage and confidence' in the profession.

—HC Judge H.P. Sandesh

MLA Ponnanna operates rice transplanter; earns accolades

Ponnampet, Aug. 13 (BCT)- While others of his ilk engage in political activities, attend ceremonies and boast about the achievements of the Congress Government, A.S. Ponnanna, the Congress Legislator representing Virajpet in Kodagu district, is fostering a connection with his Constituency by involving himself in paddy cultivation.

Just yesterday, he arrived at a field in Nallur village near Ponnampet and actively participated in a demonstration of mechanised rice cultivation through transplanting.

This event took place in the farmland of Somengada Ganesh Thimmaiah, an accomplished farmer and recipient of the Rajyotsava Award. Thimmaiah employs integrated farming methods, successfully growing both agricultural and horticultural crops.

In the face of a significant shortage of skilled labour in Kodagu, Ganesh Thimmaiah employs machinery for transplanting paddy in his fields. Ponnanna inaugurated the event and personally operated the machine, evoking memories of his childhood when he was part of a family group dedicated to rice cultivation.

Through the act of planting rice saplings, the MLA instilled inspiration among the attending citizens and officials. His enthusiasm for promoting mechanised rice cultivation was evident as he ventured into the fields, adeptly transplanting seedlings with skilful hands.

Subsequently, Ponnanna learned about Ganesh Thimmaiah's diversification into additional income streams such as poultry farming, apiculture, and pisciculture. In addition to the usual crops like coffee, pepper, ginger, mango, orange and jackfruit, Thimmaiah has successfully cultivated rambutan fruit. The MLA commended Ganesh Thimmaiah's integrated approach to agriculture, which encompasses main crops like areca, coffee and paddy, alongside a variety of vegetables, fruits and sub-crops, at a time when people are increasingly shying away from 'non-lucrative' agriculture.

The MLA, formerly serving as the Additional Solicitor General of Karnataka, currently holds the position of Chief Minister Siddharamaiah's Legal Advisor with the status of a Cabinet Minister. He is the son of the late A.K. Subbaiah, a dynamic political leader from Kodagu.

Focus to solve cases through Lok Adalat: CJ Prasanna Varale

Mysuru, Aug. 13 (BLU&BS)- Chief Justice of Karnataka High Court Justice Prasanna B. Varale has given a call to the advocates to give preference for speedy disposal of cases through Lok Adalat.

Justice Prasanna

Justice Varale observed that "Advocates should initiate for solving the cases through mutual agreement between the plaintiffs. With this the pressure on legal system will be addressed."

Lakhs of cases are being settled through Lok Adalat, as during the National Lok Adalat held in the month of February alone 64.13 lakh cases were settled, followed by second Lok Adalat when 34.76 lakh cases were settled, said Justice Varale providing statistics of the cases solved.

Even family disputes have been solved in Lok Adalat, through which several of warring couples are also reunited. By parents deciding to live together, it has brought joy in their children too. In this wake, focus more on settling the cases through mutual consent in Lok Adalat, Justice Varale advised the advocates.

WORD OF THE DAY

Forte

Pronunciation: FOR-tay.
Meaning: Forte refers to something that a person does well, or in other words, a person's strong point.
Origin: En garde! When English speakers borrowed the word forte from French in the 17th century, it referred to the strongest part of the blade of a fencing sword, the section between the middle and the hilt. (The word's ultimate source is the French adjective fort, meaning "strong."). Forte was perfectly suited for metaphorical use, and it quickly came to refer to the strong point of a person, in addition to the strong point of a blade. (The word has its counterpoint in foible, which comes from an obsolete form of the French word faible, "weak," and refers both to the weakest part of a sword blade and to a person's weak point.) There is some controversy over how to correctly pronounce forte. Common choices in American English are "FOR-tay" and "for-TAY," but many usage commentators recommend matching it to fort, since the e is not pronounced in French.
Example: "Rallying is what [tennis player, Sienna] Watts sees as her forte, especially with her ability to tire out her opponent. 'I think a lot of people think I'm very fast because I can get to most of the balls,' Watts said. 'I try to move people around in hitting short shots followed by longer shots.'" — Matthew Ehler, M Live (Grand Rapids, Michigan), 26 May 2023.

THE ODD WORD

Farouche

Wild; unpolished.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Fit as a fiddle

Meaning: The phrase "fit as a fiddle" is a simile that means being in good health; something that's in sound condition.
Origin: The origin of this phrase is not clear. However, it may have something to do with the maintenance involved in keeping a musical instrument in fit condition. Indeed, instruments like guitars, flutes, violins and others require a level of care to keep them in good shape and functioning properly. For example, let's look at a fiddle. These typically refer to stringed instruments, such as a violin. In order to keep a violin in a working state, its strings must be replaced if they break, tiny pegs need to be kept tightened, and it should be cleaned every now and then to prevent dust buildup. This sort of maintenance keeps the violin healthy or "fit," so to speak. Thus, with this phrase, a person's health is being compared to a well-maintained fiddle. But how old is this saying? It goes back to at least the early 17th century. For example it is written in a book titled English-men for my Money, by Haughton William, 1616: "This is excellent ynfayth, as fit as a fiddle."
